SOLID DELEGATION IS NOT UNLIKELY

Virginia Is Sure for Parker and Nine Democratic Congressmen.

STUBBORN STRUGGLE
IN THE SOUTHWEST

Democrats and Republicans Both Claim the Ninth District and Are Working Hard to Defeat Each Other—Strenuous Struggle to Elect Wysor.

One week from Tuesday the great quadrennial battle for the presidency will be fought out with the ballots. While there is great doubt of the result, great changes may be wrought in a week, and even now experience demonstrates that it is impossible to forecast with any certainty the result of a general election in this country.

Up to 1856 the two great parties practically alternated in electing a President, save that Tilden, elected in 1876, was deprived of the office by the Electoral Commission. In 1872 Grant won. In 1876 Hayes was elected, though Tilden was entitled to the victory. In 1880 Garfield won over Hancock. In 1884 the pendulum swung again, and Cleveland defeated Blaine, receiving eighteen more than the requisite number of electoral votes. In 1888 Benjamin Harrison defeated Cleveland, but in 1892 Cleveland came up strong and smiling, and defeated Harrison by a Democratic landslide. In 1896 the Democrats lost their former strength in the North and East, and history repeated itself in 1900, with practically the same issues and the identical candidates for the presidency as in 1896. This year Democratic hopes are based chiefly on the prospect of another landslide.

Virginia Is All Right.

So far as the State of Virginia is concerned, there is no doubt that its twelve electors will cast their votes for Parker, whether he receives any more or not. It is only a question of the majority, and that, in turn, depends upon the vote cast. With a full poll of the party strength, the majority will be far up in the thousands. The chief contest in this State is over the election of its ten representatives in Congress. But one of these has really dangerous opposition, and that one is Hon. George W. Wysor, who is running against the Republican incumbent in the Ninth District, Colonel Campbell Slemmons. Colonel Slemmons was elected by a very narrow plurality over Hon. William P. Rhea two years ago.

This year both Republicans and Democrats have waged a strenuous campaign for the lone Virginia congressional seat now held by a Republican. Both parties have made the mountain reverberate with oratory and have fairly flooded it with campaign literature. The Republicans have the Federal patronage of the district, and this alone gives them the nucleus of an organization, which is said to have been perfected to a greater extent than four years ago. Colonel Slemmons is a man of large means, and it is said that the Republicans have no lack of campaign funds. The Congressional Committee, of which Mr. Babcock is chairman, is looking after all the close districts with a view of carrying sufficient to save control of the National House. It is true also that the Republicans have a large number of capable campaign workers, and that they are resorting to every appeal to prejudice. They are making the suffrage clause of the new Constitution an issue, and are charging the disfranchisement of thousands of white men in the district to the Democrats.

The Other Districts.

The only district in which the Democrats have any serious opposition is the Ninth, in the South, where State Senator Revercomb is the Republican candidate against Congressman H. D. Flood. Mr. Flood's election is confidently expected, and, indeed, assured. The independent candidacy of Captain John N. Ople, a Democratic supporter of the State, is not seriously regarded by the Democrats. Information from all over the district is that his candidacy is attracting little or no attention, and that his vote will be surprisingly small.

Congressman Swanson, in the Fifth District, is opposed by B. Stovall, a deputy collector of internal revenue, but Stovall's candidacy is not seriously regarded. The same is true to an even greater extent in all the other districts of the State, the Republicans having made a nominal fight in all this year. It is generally conceded that the Republicans have no hope outside the Ninth District. They have an even chance of victory, possibly a trifle better than even.

THE WORK BEGINS.

First Brick Laid Yesterday in the Addition to St. John's.

The addition to the historic old St. John's Church were begun Thursday, when the first bricks in the foundation were laid. Thirteen ladies took part in the ceremony incident to breaking ground and laying the corner stone by taking the spade into their hands.

Yesterday morning the first brick was laid by Master Campbell Goodwin, son of the rector of the church; Miss Alice Goodwin, his sister, the second, and Miss Clara E. Middleton, the third.

To-morrow the work will be begun in earnest. The south wall of the church will be taken away and the extension made in the rear of the building.

At the Woman's Club.

Miss Nannie B. Winston will appear at the Woman's Club to-morrow afternoon and give an informal talk on travel, and especially her recent sojourn in Honolulu.

Fine Crowds Are Expected at the Whirlwind Meetings.

The Democrats of Richmond propose to conduct a whirlwind campaign here during the final week of the struggle, and will have big rallies in most of the sections of the city.

The first one will be in Fulton, at Nelson's Hall, to-morrow night, and the speakers will be Lieutenant-Governor Joseph E. Willard and Congressman John Lamb.

Alderman Louis Washer will preside, and the following gentlemen will sit upon the stage: Fred H. Garber, R. A. Cavado, J. H. Lawder, J. E. O'Grady, John H. Boulware, D. S. O'Dwyer, William J. Mays, J. A. Black, John T. Duffy, Frank B. Bowers, R. H. Bailey, J. H. Bowen.

On Tuesday night Judge Sam W. Williams, of Wythe, and Senator J. Boyd Sears will appear at Sanger Hall. There will be a band of music on hand, and Mr. McIntire Polke will preside. The following well known Democrats will occupy seats on the stage:

Anderson, John Crowder, Captain Charles F. Taylor, W. F. Jenkins, C. E. Ebel, W. M. Myers, Frank P. Burke, Andrew Turner.

Tucker and Montague.

The next rally will be at Old Market Hall on Friday night, and strong candidates will be on hand, though they have not yet been settled upon.

On Saturday night the campaign will wind up at the Academy of Music, and the orators will be Governor Montague and ex-Congressman Henry St. George Tucker, one of the Democratic electors for the State. This will probably be the greatest meeting of the campaign, and a great crowd is already practically assured. City Chairman Doherty will preside, and ladies will be in attendance, side and inside will be in attendance. This will be the Governor's only speech here during the campaign.

LIKE MME. CALVE'S SINGING,
BUT NOT HER "CARMEN"

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, October 29.—Mme. Calve is touring Germany for the first time. She sang "Carmen" yesterday evening to a sold out house, and had many recalls, but it was remarked that the majority of the audience did not participate in the enthusiasm. The critics praised her singing and acting, but not her "Carmen," in making her a fine lady in Paris salons instead of a simple cigarette girl.

Knocked Down by Highwaymen.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

HAMPTON, VA., October 29.—William H. Cherry, aged sixty-two, was knocked down and severely hurt, by two unknown men last night at 11 o'clock, as he was about to enter the gate at the home of his sister, Mrs. John M. Ross, on Mallory Avenue. The old gentleman carried a lunch basket on his arm, and the rattling of dishes as he fell attracted the attention of the people in the house. This scared off the men, whose intention evidently was to rob the man.

Mr. Cherry has remained in a dazed condition since he was struck, and it is feared that he may be permanently injured.

WILD BULL CHASE IN CROWDED STREET

For Two Hours Taurus Kept Philadelphians in State of Turmoil.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

PHILADELPHIA, PA., October 29.—All the northern part of the city was in a turmoil of excitement for two hours over the running amuck of a frenzied bull from a drove. Policemen from two districts were sent to assist in his capture, much ammunition was wasted, and Emil Stechman, or No. 2033 Hutchinson Street, received a slight wound from a bullet in the face.

Men in charge of the drove made every effort to capture the bull, but he dashed back and forth through side streets, arousing the neighborhood and inspiring terror everywhere. Charles Steeburger, one of the drovers, finally procured a rifle and began firing at the animal.

Emil Stechman was looking out of his window when a misdirected bullet punctured his cheek, and he took no further interest in the bull chase.

The bull was captured at the driveway of a factory in Hutchinson Street by a bit of strategy by the drovers. He was exhausted and unable to resist when led away. It took several hours to round up the rest of the herd, which became widely scattered during the excitement.

CAPT. HITCH VERY ANGRY

Military Officer Convicted of Neglect of Duty Writes Governor Terrell.

CRITICISES THE COURT

Calls Upon the Governor to be Careful in the Matter of Calling Out Troops.

(By Associated Press.)

SAVANNAH, GA., Oct. 29.—Captain Robert M. Hitch mailed a letter to Governor Terrell Friday night enclosing his statement relative to his recent conviction by court-martial for allowing the Statesboro mob to overpower the military and take Reed and Cato and burn them. The Governor himself is made the object of criticism, condemnation and censure. The civil authorities are arraigned and the personnel of the court-martial which convicted him reviewed.

Captain Hitch says that he expected more consideration at the Governor's hands in this connection, it is stated by friends of Captain Hitch that the summary action of the Chief Executive will lead to the resignation of Mr. C. M. Hitch, the captain's brother, as the Governor's private secretary.

Is Especially Severe.

In dealing with the formation of the court and the responsibility that rested upon it, and the way its work was done, Captain Hitch is especially severe. He declares that under military law by which he was tried, even the right to challenge for cause is so restricted as to be all but useless. Under the law by which he was tried, he says, a bare majority of the court, five, the verdict and the sentence, and a unanimous finding is not necessary, and the minority is not permitted to file a dissenting vote. He points out that the Governor, as commander-in-chief of the State forces, has the power to approve or disapprove all or any part of the finding of the court, but that he negligently and arbitrarily failed to exercise the power which he was duty bound to exercise.

In conclusion, Captain Hitch scores the action of the Governor in calling out troops on every occasion. He calls upon the Governor to use more discretion in determining when it is necessary to call out the citizen soldiery of the State.

Smith—Lowry.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

RACE WITH DEATH BY HILL AND DALE

Dutiful Son's Wild Ride to See His Dying Mother Yet Alive.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

BALTIMORE, MD., Oct. 29.—Shooting rapids in a bark canoe loaded to the gunwales, lashing in the teeth of a terrific snow storm across Saranac Lake, traveling miles overland through almost trackless forests, with his wife and daughter, from his Adirondack camp, and saving mountain belugas where death lurked on both sides of the faint path, Samuel H. Sessions, a wealthy merchant of this city, yesterday reached the bedside of his mother, Mrs. Hester Turner Sessions, in time for one last hour with her before she died. He hurried into the house and fell on his knees beside the dying woman, who for days had fought illness and great age—she was eighty-one years old—to keep her hold on life for his coming.

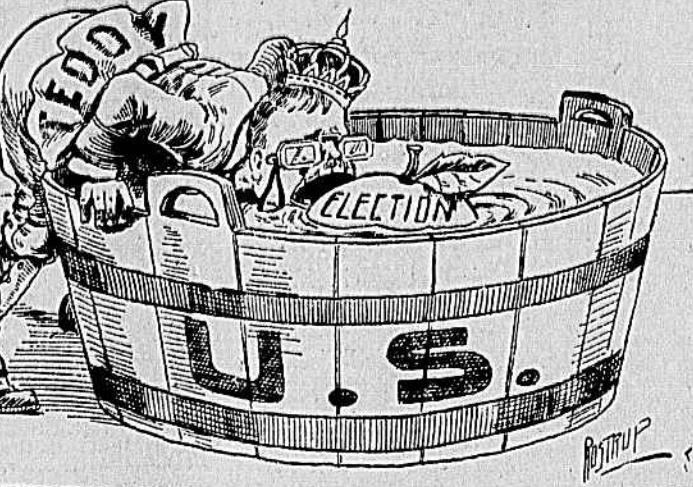

"Mother," he cried, "do you know me?" "Yes, Sam; I knew you would come," she whispered, slipping her hand into his as he bent to kiss her.

Her voice grew weaker as the warning index swept about the dial, and when the long hand had traveled once around it rested on the minute of her death.

"Oh, my boy," she sighed, "I knew you would come; I knew no distance could keep you from me; I knew—"

The hush that struck the hour rang forth her knell.

Mrs. Sessions was the widow of Augustus D. Sessions, who made his fortune here.

WILL HE GET IT?

CLOT OF BLOOD ON THE BRAIN

Cause of Death of Man Who Slept for One Hundred and Twenty Hours.

FERRY BOAT LAUNCHED

NEWPORT NEWS, VA., October 29.—The police are now convinced that John Gardiner, the man who died at the hospital last night after being unconscious for more than one hundred and twenty hours, was murdered. A post-mortem examination conducted by Dr. B. B. Gray, the coroner, this morning revealed the fact that there was a clot of blood as large as a man's hand on the brain of the corpse.

Even after the scalp had been removed the clot could not be removed. It was supposed that Dr. Newby's opinion that the patient had suffered with diabetic coma was correct. When the skull was taken off, however, the great blood clot was discovered pressing against the brain.

At 9 o'clock to-night the coroner's jury returned a verdict to the effect that the deceased came to his death from the effects of a blow struck with a blunt instrument in the hand of some unknown person. A head-bag is believed to have been the weapon used.

Gardiner was discovered outside of the Beach saloon last Sunday night when the police raided that joint. Monday morning he was taken to the hospital, apparently enjoying a healthy sleep. It seems that kidney trouble brought on by the blood clot, gave ground for this opinion.

The police are making a thorough investigation, and it is understood that clues have been found which may lead to the arrest of the murderer or murderers.

Gardiner had lived here for years, and was employed along the water front as a "longshoreman." Little is known of his past history, but he is said to have remarked one time that he had the wife of an examination of his papers shows that he was in the employ of the Union News Company at Philadelphia in 1897. He was evidently a man of some education, for the handwriting and diction of several letters written by him were good.

Chief of Police Johnson says he has information to the effect that Gardiner's brother was secretary to Hon. Charles E. Smith at the time the latter was Postmaster-General.

The Lackawanna Railway ferry boat Scranton, one of the four steamers building at the yard for the Lackawanna Company, was successfully launched at the shipyard here this morning at 11:10 o'clock. The gates of the yard were not thrown open until 12 o'clock, and the steamer was launched with few formalities. The sponsor was Miss Eleanor Harris, a niece of Mrs. W. A. Post.

As the boat went down the ways she was greeted by the steam whistle of the armored cruiser, West Virginia, and shortly before 12 o'clock the cruiser West Virginia weighed anchor and started on her voyage for Boston. On Wednesday she will be given her official trial over the government course. Numerous shipwreckers to the public, and in addition to the members of the trial board, are on the ship.

MUCH DOUBT AS TO PRETTIEST GIRL

Church Fair Ballot Box Stolen and Nobody Can Learn the Result.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

PITTSBURG, PA., October 29.—There is trouble among members of the congregation of the Roman Catholic Church of the Annunciation in Allegheny over the election of the prettiest girl of the church, each with a host of friends, are in tears of uncertainty.

There had been some dispute as to who was the prettiest girl in the church, and the committee had invited guests to the election, and had the election vote on them at a three days' fair, which closed last night. Each of the twelve girls sat for three afternoons and three evenings while the votes were being cast, but when the count was to be made, an hour after the polls closed last night, it was found that some one had stolen the ballot box.

ALLOWED MORE TIME TO PROVIDE FIRE PROTECTION

NORFOLK, VA., October 29.—The Ordinance Committee of the Councils in reconsidering the law proposed for fire protection in theatres, allowed the Vellie people until August, 1905, to put in fireproof proscenium arch and a series of tanks over the building. They changed the clause regarding limit to audiences so as to make it read that tickets and admissions shall be regulated by the seating capacity of the house and not by the number of seats.

MYSTERIOUS DROWNING

Clergyman Barred From New Jersey Parish Drowns in Suspicious Way.

MARRIED DIVORCED WOMAN

Minister Believed by One Witness to Have Deliberately Jumped Overboard.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

BALTIMORE, MD., October 29.—The Rev. George Frederick Kettell, a former assistant rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Baltimore, who was barred from a charge at Palmyra, N. J., by Bishop Scarborough because Mr. Kettell had married the divorced wife of a fellow clergyman, was drowned yesterday at Sparrow's Point, the site of the Maryland Steel Company, about ten miles from this city.

Whether Mr. Kettell was accidentally drowned or whether he deliberately jumped overboard is a mystery. The body had not been recovered up to a late hour to-night.

Since Mr. Kettell married the divorced wife of the Rev. Clarence Franklin, formerly of St. Louis, the lives of the young couple had been beset with troubles. Immediately after the marriage Mr. Kettell resigned his Baltimore charge and subsequently was accepted by the congregation at Palmyra.

When the young rector presented his letter of dismissal from Bishop Paret, of Maryland, to Bishop Scarborough, of New Jersey, the latter emphatically declined to accept him, and ordered his dismissal from the Palmyra church.

After a legal contest Mr. Kettell and his wife went to Philadelphia, where he became a tutor in a school, and later they returned to Maryland. Mr. Kettell to spend some time with his mother and Mrs. Kettell to visit her family in Pocomoke City.

Mrs. Kettell went yesterday to visit some friends at Sparrow's Point, and later she was joined by her husband.

After dining together, Mr. Kettell said that he intended to take a row on the river, despite the fact that the temperature was near the freezing point. When about fifty yards from the shore, the marine observer at the place noticed him struggling in the water and saw him drown before he could be rendered.

A watchman at the place declared that he saw Mr. Kettell throw an oar from the boat and then deliberately dive overboard, and at the same time attempt to kick the boat away from him.

Others on the shore who saw part of the tragedy were of the opinion that Mr. Kettell lost an oar and while endeavoring to recover it fell overboard. He had fallen from the boat, however, it is contended that the craft would either have capsized or else have partly filled with water. When the boat was reached, as a matter of fact, the interior was perfectly dry, while Mr. Kettell's overcoat and gloves were found neatly placed in the bow. It is known that Mr. Kettell had recently been subject to attacks of nervous prostration.

Mr. Kettell was thirty-three years old, had a liberal education, was a man of charming personality, and had been successful in all of his church work. He was the young widow and mother of Mr. Kettell are prostrated with grief.

FAMOUS WOMAN IS FOR JUDGE PARKER

Dr. Mary Walker Doing Stunts for Democratic Candidate in New York.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

OSWEGO, N. Y., Oct. 29.—News of the death of campaign orators in this part of the State reached Dr. Mary Walker, on her farm at Bunker Hill, and she came to town to-day with a Parker speech in her pocket to announce her intention of taking the stump for the Democratic candidate. Dr. Walker's dislike of President Roosevelt and everything Republican she has embodied in several speeches which she has prepared to deliver at meetings for women exclusively.

It is believed that women should be educated in political affairs as well as men, said Dr. Walker. "Although women are not allowed the right of suffrage, they can wield powerful influence in the selection of good men to administer the affairs of government. Every mother should have an interest in the vote of her husband and sons, and I shall talk to women on every political issue involved in this campaign. Women should know about graft and the perfidy of men in politics, and I shall expose them. I shall speak in New York and other cities through the State, and I don't want silly men to attend my meetings unless they accompany their wives."

"Judge Parker is handsome and manly, and every intelligent woman should exert her influence in his behalf."

CAROLINA DEFEATS POLYTECHNIC CADETS

THE TIDE IS NOW TURNED

Pennsylvania Prevents Harvard From Scoring at Cambridge.

THERE WAS GREAT PLAYING

Spectacular Scene on the Winning Side When Score Is Made.

(By Associated Press.)

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Oct. 29.—The third surprise of the foot-ball season occurred at Soldiers' Field to-day, when the Harvard eleven was not only defeated and prevented from scoring, but was completely outplayed in every department of the game by the University of Pennsylvania. The final score was: Pennsylvania, 11; Harvard, 0.

Only three times throughout the game was the Harvard eleven within striking distance of Pennsylvania's goal. On two of these occasions she fumbled the ball. On the third she was held for downs when only twelve yards away from the Pennsylvania goal. The game was a spectacular one throughout, and the defeat of the Harvard team was hardly more unexpected than the game shown by the wearers of the blue and red. The Pennsylvania's play was extremely versatile, punting, delayed passes, quarterback runs, fake kicks and plunges through the line rapidly following each other.

Twenty-five hundred followers of Pennsylvania occupied one side of the Stadium, and the scene in that section when Pennsylvania scored was spectacular indeed. The crowd arose on its feet, with rhythmic waving of flags, sang "The Red and the Blue," and when the game ended the students jumped into the field and in the wildest enthusiasm carried to their dressing rooms the team which had broken the long string of defeats which Pennsylvania had suffered at the hands of Harvard.

Pennsylvania rushed sixty-six times for 198 yards, kicked thirteen times for 463 yards and had twenty first downs. Harvard rushed seventy-seven times for 173 yards, kicked ten times for 232 yards, and had eighteen first downs. Line-up and summary:

BARNEY OLDFIELD WINS AUTOMOBILE RACE

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, October 29.—Barney Oldfield won the automobile track championship of the world at the Empire City track, defeating Paul Sartori, the driver of William K. Vanderbilt Jr.'s car, in the final heat of the four cornered ten mile race. His time was 9:12.3-4, which beats a record of 9:14.4 set by a track from a standing start, by twofifths of a second. Oldfield had previously defeated Bernin, and Sartori had beaten Terry.

A CHICAGO WIDOW FORCED TO SIGN UP

Ardent Suitor Compelled Her to Agree to Marry Him at Once.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

HAMMOND, IND., Oct. 29.—In a complaint filed in court, Mrs. Lottie Johnson, an artist, with a studio in the Masonic Temple, in this city, charges that Lindley Erwin besieged her in her home last Wednesday night and forced her to sign a contract to become his wife on or before Thanksgiving Day. The artist had Erwin arrested and asked the court to put him under peace bonds. Judge McMahon reserved decision until to-morrow.

Erwin is a fraternal insurance organizer, and had offices in the same building with Mrs. Johnson, who is a widow. He became acquainted with her several months ago, after he had been jilted by a woman whom he had obtained a license to wed.

Erwin obtained a marriage license last Thursday, and engaged the Rev. L. M. Smith, of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, to go to the studio for the ceremony at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. When the minister appeared Mrs. Johnson refused to be married, and had her ardent suitor arrested. Erwin's only defense was that he "loved the woman to distraction."

BLACKSBURG, VA., October 29.—The score of the game between North Carolina and V. P. I. this afternoon is 6 to 0 in favor of the Tar Heels. But the score was made on a fluke, and does not indicate the relative strength of the teams, as V. P. I. outplayed North Carolina at every point of the game, except punting.

Some folk say that there is no such thing as luck, but the score of the game this afternoon is surely a result of good luck for Carolina and hard luck for V. P. I. The game was very spectacular, and interest continued unabated from start to finish, the climax being reached the last minute of the game when V. P. I. was making steady gains to cross their opponents' goal line and tie the score. The timekeepers stopped the game before the touchdown could be made.

There was much ground gained on each side, but V. P. I. gained at least twelve yards as the visitors in end runs and line bucks.

During the first half, honors were about even from the standpoint of playing. During the second half, however, V. P. I. clearly outplayed the visitors, but after they had rushed the ball to within sixteen yards of their opponents' goal line the pigskin was fumbled, and Carolina gained a first down. Townsend seized it like a flash and with a close field ran the entire length of the gridiron for the only touchdown of the game.

Carolina put up a strong game throughout. Her defense during the first half was impenetrable, and her whole team stubbornly contested every inch of ground. The Tar Heels' backs, however, were unable after the first few downs to advance the ball for any considerable gain through the Orange and Maroon line. Time and again they were forced to punt, and Jacobs seldom failed to kick forty yards.

During the second half the ball remained in V. P. I.'s possession most of the time. For V. P. I., H. N. Harris was easily the star. He was frequently called on for gains three or four times in succession, and but rarely did he fail to circle the opposing end for at least ten yards.

During the second half the offensive work of the cadets was fast and furious. Gandy, first fullback, Carolina, wins a loss and chooses to defend the west goal. Dear returns Wilson's kick-off to the seventeen yard line, and in the first play goes through the line for two yards. Calling to gain their first down, Carolina is unable to gain a yard, and the field is returned to Carolina's twenty yard line.

Shortly after this Webber clears the cadets' right end and dashes down the field to the Virginia thirty-five yard line, but as he steps out of bounds at the fifty yard line, the play is recalled to that point. Carolina cannot gain, and kicks to Harris on V. P. I.'s two yard line. The Tar Heels end are well down the field and nail the runner in his tracks.

By a series of desperate plunges the soldiers return the ball to the seventeen yard line, from which point Harris, of Carolina, tries a fake game and gains twelve yards, and then a second time go no further, and Jacobs punts forty yards. The ball is fumbled and Carolina captures it on V. P. I.'s six yard line.

First down, no gain. A tackle formation goes two yards, but in the next play the Tar Heels fumble, and it is the Tar Heels' turn for their four yard line. Again Blackburg batters the blue and white line for from five to ten yards, until her forty yard line is reached, from which C. M. Harris makes a beautiful thirty yard run around right end.

Time up for first half. Score—V. P. I., 0; North Carolina, 6.

Between the halves an enthusiastic demonstration was made by the V. P. I. cadets. They came down in a body from the grand stand and marched around the field, waving their pennants and singing college songs. As they passed the Carolina team the cheering was greatly increased as a comment on the victory. Second half, with V. P. I. defending.
